

Title: Rewriting Adam

Author: Connie Mae Inglis

Category: Literary Science Fiction

Format: Paperback: standard print & large print; Ebook

ISBN: Paperback:

Standard print: 9781988983158

Large print: 9781988983325

Ebook: 9781988983165

Publisher: Siretona Creative

Publish Date: Sept 22, 2021

Pages: 388 (standard print)

Trim: 13.97 x 2.03 x 21.59 cm

Click to buy paperback:

Chapters-Indigo

Barnes & Noble

Amazon paperback

Amazon large print

Local Stores - BookManager

Click to buy ebook:

Kobo

Kindle

Nook

Contact info:

siretona.com/rewritingadam

conniemaeinglis.ca

ABOUT THE BOOK:

All his life, Ethan's felt betrayed by the ones he's loved. Feeling homeless and without hope, Ethan travels from the Canadian prairies to Southeast Asia, searching for he knows not what.

When his path crosses with an archaeologist heading to an unexplored area of northern Myanmar, Ethan goes on a journey into an Edenesque world of welcoming telepathic humans, strange voices, and a cunning enemy.

For what purpose? He doesn't know. Can he figure it out? And through it, will he discover the true meaning of HOME?

"A struggle with addiction, a failed marriage, and the longing to make things right for a child's sake are just a few of the things that pull at the heartstrings in this well-written novel of failure and redemption."

--Marcia Laycock, award-winning Canadian author & speaker

REVIEWS:

"Inglis takes us on a Crichtonesque adventure into the jungles of Thailand with a gold digger and a young man who has questions about why everyone in his life has made him so miserable. Early on she hints that the protagonist is on a Lewis Carroll adventure, but that rabbit hole is a feint that drops you into the middle of an altogether different adventure that has more in common with C. S. Lewis's science fiction worlds or Tolkein's Eä."

--Travis Williams, author.

"Rewriting Adam is something like traveling out of the silent planet to Perelandra, but with an edge. Pain and awkwardness produce a constant discord; unceasing, jolting breaks on an uncomfortable night train. Yet a harmony of peace and hope wafts on the air, getting stronger as the night train travels toward morning. Toward awakening."

--Elissa Ikeda, PhD.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR:

Connie Mae Inglis has a passion to share stories. She has spent much of the last 25 years working in Southeast Asia with her husband and children. This cross-cultural living has given her lots of material for telling stories, always with the desire to offer restoration hope.

Rewriting Adam offers such hope.